

Runner in trouble

It was almost 9pm in late August and the sun was slowly fading from the sky. As the light started to fade, the trees seemed to disappear into the distance.

A man hurried by, out for a run, and as he passed the girl he begun to gasp.

She couldn't help but stare at him as he slowly started to lose his balance and fall to the floor. After a moment she realised he needed help and broke into a run as she headed towards him.

"Are you ok?" she panted as she stood in front of him, slightly bending with her hands on her knees. He was able to pull himself up and he smiled at her.

"I'm fine thanks," he replied, "just overdoing it as usual, but I'm grateful for your concern."

She smiled back, "As long as you're ok," she said, and gave a little wave as she went on her way.

1. Find the word 'light' in the text. Is it used as a verb or a noun? Make a sentence using the same word (light) as the other one (if you think it is used here as a noun, write a sentence using it as a verb, if you think it is used here as a verb, write a sentence using it as a noun).
2. Find the word 'run'. Is this used as a noun or a verb? Explain how you know.
3. Find the word 'stare' and write whether this is used as a noun or a verb. Explain how you know.
4. Find another word in the text that can be used as a noun and a verb. Write a sentence using the word as a noun, and a sentence using the word as a verb.