

Rocket-girl

Rocket-girl propelled herself through the air like a small rock released from a slingshot. Her hair streamed in the wind and her feet were a blur of motion as she sprinted across the fields. She was running faster than a bullet train and did not hesitate when she came to the banks of the mighty river, instead she leapt. Rocket-girl's momentum was so great that she touched down smoothly seconds later on the opposite bank, a distance of nearly a mile. After landing, Rocket-girl didn't stop, but dashed swiftly across the meadow. She had only minutes to reach the canyon and save the children.

*Answer the following questions in full sentences on a separate page – do not squash your answers next to the questions.

1. Why were Rocket-girl's feet a 'blur of motion'?
2. Why is the character called Rocket-girl?
3. Was Rocket-girl running on a road? How do you know?
4. Is Rocket-girl running for fun or does she have a purpose? What is her purpose and how do you know?

Rocket-girl

Rocket-girl propelled herself through the air like a small rock released from a slingshot. Her hair streamed in the wind and her feet were a blur of motion as she sprinted across the fields. She was running faster than a bullet train and did not hesitate when she came to the banks of the mighty river, instead she leapt. Rocket-girl's momentum was so great that she touched down smoothly seconds later on the opposite bank, a distance of nearly a mile. After landing, Rocket-girl didn't stop, but dashed swiftly across the meadow. She had only minutes to reach the canyon and save the children.

*Answer the following questions in full sentences on a separate page – do not squash your answers next to the questions.

1. Why were Rocket-girl's feet a 'blur of motion'?
2. Why is the character called Rocket-girl?
3. Was Rocket-girl running on a road? How do you know?
4. Is Rocket-girl running for fun or does she have a purpose? What is her purpose and how do you know?